Maven Pizza Orders & Revenue Analysis Dashboard

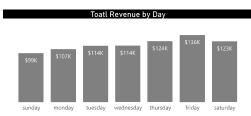

by Akshat Goya

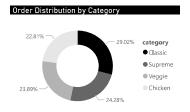

As per bar it be interpreted that between all days of the weeks friday is usually the day when most of the orders are placed this can be attributed to the fact in most of the offices from friday weekend usually starts.

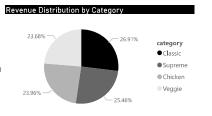

Similar to the behaviour of the orders on friday due to which a large number orders is being placed it can be directly greater number of orders in tern reflects greater number of revenue generated on friday.

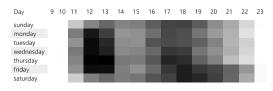

The donut gives us an distribution of the pizza categories & their contribution with respect to the total number of orders with classic category of pizzas contributing the most (29.02 %) of the total orders while chicken category of pizzas contributing the least with (22.81%) of the total orders.

The pie gives us an distribution of the pizza categories & their contribution with respect to the total revenue generated with classic category of pizzas contributing the most (26.91 %) of the total revenue while veggies category of pizzas contributing the least with (22.81%) of the total orders but said that we can conclude for the total revenue generated nearly all the four pizza categories are contributing equally.

The Average order value for the moth of november is higher and the month of august has the least while the the quantity of the pizza ordered for the month of july is the highest and november and august are 3rd & 6th respectively in terms of quantity of pizzas ordered hence the ambiguous behaviour.

